

Jade “KILLER” White (Do what you love)

AMIERE BEZEMORE

ORCA K-8 SCHOOL | 8TH GRADE

Jade “Killer” White is only known for how vicious she fought. Jade or better known as KILLER fought everyone. She was mean and quiet. She kept to herself and didn’t talk much. And as of right now, she was beating some MMA fighter’s ass.

It's only because he asked her to fight. Obviously knows being that she really lived up to her name. It was only one round and she’d already broken his nose and chipped a few of his teeth. While him on the other hand, he only landed one punch. The punch hadn’t even slowed her down; she was still going strong. Three rounds later and Killer had cracked his rib and quite literally knocked the air out of him. It wasn’t until he threw the white flag that she stopped.

When people saw her walk off the ring, they really saw how scary she was. Her face was covered in blood. Her hair had now come out of the bun it was in and stuck to her face. If you didn’t know it, you would have mistaken her for a serial killer.

Her dark brown eyes were low as she sunk into the ice tube while listening to her manager talk about how well she did and gave her even more money. Jade loved it. She loved money. She loved fighting. She loved what she was doing. It calmed her especially since she couldn’t act like this at all when she went home.

When she went home, she was a senior in high school and on the basketball team. She had straight A’s and was very talkative. She hated it.

This broadside was created in celebration of Seattle Arts & Lectures’ Writers in the Schools (WITS) program’s Year End Reading. It was written at Orca K-8 School during the 2022-23 school year with WITS Writer-in-Residence, Cassidy Dyce.