The sun is a watchful eye
and the sky is a big, blue, blanket.
The grass is my shoes
the autumn leaves a nice hat.
The birds are a symphony, the weather its conductor.
As the sun sets, the choir of coyotes sing,
and the crickets in the percussion section chirp away.